

AIMCAL 2011 Fall Technical Conference and 25th International Conference on Vacuum Web Coating October 23–26, 2011
Peppermill Resort, Reno, Nevada

Controlling Static in Unwinding Rolls

Kelly Robinson, PhD, PE, IEEE Fellow

Electrostatic Answers

15 Piping Rock Run

Fairport, NY 14450

kelly.robinson@electrostaticanswers.com

585-425-8158

Abstract

Static on plastic films causes a number of problems in roll-to-roll manufacturing operations. Unwinding a roll is an opportunity to neutralize static from two sources; static charge stored in the roll from previous operations, and static separated by tribocharging when the roll is unwound. The proper location of two ionizers are identified and the importance of the first conveyance roller is discussed.